

Clonale by Kooyong 2025 – Reviews

---

JancisRobinson.com, MAY 2026

Tamlyn Currin

Vines planted in 1996 in Tuerong, north-facing, 100-120 m on clay loam. Sustainable viticulture and low-intervention winemaking. Everything about this beamingly bright wine seems to radiate an aura of sunny Summer yellow! Lemon and bergamot, citrus blossom and chamomile. The acidity has a hazy softness but it fills the spaces, and there is wonderful rock-pool salinity. Fragrant, citrus-peel zesty and a nip of catnip on the finish.

16.5/20 points

and composure, leaving a ripple of chewy phenolics in its wake. For a young chardonnay, this is seamless and nicely styled, and very drinkable now. Everything seems to fall into place: there's a lot to like.

92 points

Halliday Wine Companion, APRIL 2026

Jane Faulkner

While it's no longer the bargain it once was, it's still a very good drink. You'd buy it with confidence. It's not complex, but it's not simple, with plenty of citrus, stone fruit, cashew-like lees and texture plus acidity to enjoy on its own.

93 points

The Real Review, MAY 2026

Gabrielle Poy

A tempting mix of spiced apples, nectarine and fennel awakens the senses. The wine glides across the palate, carrying flavour